THE TRAIN

TREN AL ÁNDALUS

The Suite and Bedroom carriages that currently make up the Tren Al Ándalus belong to the same series as those built in France in the early 20th century for the travels of members of the British monarchy between Calais and the Côte d'Azur.

Coupled with the lounge carriages, also manufactured around the same time, they form a unique train where original features coexist with state-of-the-art technical advancements, ensuring maximum comfort and safety.

The entire train—including bedrooms, suites, and common areas—is internally connected, allowing passengers to move freely throughout.

LIFE ON BOARD

Imagine a luxury train where you can enjoy and relax, transforming it into your lounge, your transport, your meeting place, your restaurant, your bedroom, or your dance floor. Each day, you will awaken in a different location with unique landscapes, all enjoyed from the comfort of your room or any of our evocative saloons.

During the day, while undertaking visits, we recommend comfortable clothing and footwear. In the evening, you may opt for more formal attire, though specific dress codes are not enforced at any time.
After dinner, you can enjoy evening leisure activities. Each night features live performances or dancing on board.

Alternatively, you may choose to relax more quietly in one of the other lounge carriages, take a stroll through the locality where we are stationed, or retire earlier to the privacy of your room. To facilitate rest, once the day's activities conclude, the train remains stationary at the station.

The journey aboard the Tren Al Ándalus is also a tour of exceptional gastronomy, featuring world-renowned products such as olive oil, Sherry wine, or Jabugo Iberian ham.

The exquisite buffet at our breakfasts is complemented by the personalised attention of our waiters. Local specialities are featured throughout the journey, ensuring each day begins in a different and original way at the dining table, too.

For lunches and dinners, the on-board catering in the train's elegant dining cars alternates with a selection of the finest local restaurants. This creates a delicious culinary offering, complemented by the finest wines from designated wine regions.

The entire crew of the Tren Al Ándalus is at your disposal twenty-four hours a day, trained to provide personalised service in several languages. The team is led by a Tour Manager, who will be at the helm of this rail cruise, guaranteeing a first-class service both on and off the train.
